

Overseas Travel Advice Safety Courses and Talks for Schools

Introduction

Whilst many pupils will leave school with an excellent academic education, they may not be so well prepared for the challenges of overseas travel. Many students will take a gap year or travel before or during university and our training provides an opportunity to broaden their knowledge and awareness of the wider world. In most cases our introduction to schools has been via parents concerned that their children are not 'streetwise' to deal with overseas problems which may arise.

Our courses or school talks are most effective when given to pupils in 6th form (Year 13).

Course / Talk Options

We can offer either a one hour general talk on overseas travel and safety or alternatively, a three to four hour course. On an annual basis, we deliver our courses at a number of leading schools. This is a shortened version of our acclaimed one-day Objective Gap Safety Course held in London.

Prices

One-hour talk:	£195
Half-day course (two instructors):	£670

All prices quoted exclude VAT and travel.

Course Content

- Situation awareness
- Personal safety and crime prevention
- Kit: What to take, how to best pack, safety gadgets
- Before you go: Understanding security, religious, cultural and medical issues
- Getting about: Safety in taxis, airports, buses, hostels and money matters
- Health: Safe food and water, sickness abroad
- Environmental issues: Earthquakes, tidal rip-currents
- Female issues abroad

"Objective's Gap Safety Talk has inspired many generations of our students to embrace the positive benefits of taking a gap year, as well as broadening their horizons as to the places they may want to visit. Charlie's down-to-earth approach and his amazing depth of experience makes this an invaluable part of our pastoral programme and I can't recommend it too highly!" Ian Edwards, Tudor Hall School.